D. D. PAGE, 81, WINS OLD FIDDLERS CONTEST

CONFEDERATE SOLDIER FROM STATE HOME AWARDED $20 IN GOLD

D. D. Page, 81, ex-confederate soldier from the state home at Austin, was awarded the first prize in the old fiddlers contest here on last Friday night.

Mr. Page came from Austin to play in the contest. His violin was made in 1700, being one of the oldest instruments in the contest.

He played "Second Dixie" as the first selection. A storm of applause swept the building as he played "Dixie" for the second number. He then closed his selections with "Bonnie Blue Flag."

The judges who awarded the prize were Dr. W. E. Newton, Jim Barmore, L. D. Baggett, T. F. Criswell and Ben McClellan. The gold piece was presented by J. L. Clinton.

Mr. Page is a native of Texas. He was born December 23, 1844 near what is now Longview in Gregg county, His parents emigrated to Texas among the early settlers from Mississippi. They came to Texas in 1832 when Texas was still under Mexican rule.

He grew up in the Indian camps and in the wilderness of the frontier. At 15 years in 1861 he enlisted in the confederate army then being recruited in Texas. He went to war a member of Allen's Company and Waterhouse's 19th Texas Volunteer Regiment. He was attached to Henry E. McCulloch's second Texas Brigade and Walker's Divisioun and served under Gen. Kirby Smith.

A musician early in life Mr. Page was a drum majof and a color guard. "I always dropped my drum and grabbed a gun when we got into a tight fight," he said. He was wounded in the battle of Perkins landing at Millican's Bend. Abandoned, he crawled four miles to escape capture and was finally taken to a hospital. He got back home in 1865 and was for many years a resident of Harrison county.

Mr. Page says the old soldiers are well pleased with the administration of the home by A. W. Taber who was formerly a Milam County man.

The large auditorium of the Yoe High School was filled to overflowing on Friday evening for the old fiddlers' contest. Many were unable to secure standing room so wide spread was the interest in the program for the evening. Prominent citizens from the neighboring towns and rural communities were present to cheer for their favorites among the contestants. The old time melodies were heard once more to the evident pleasure of the very large crowd which cheered each old fiddler with vociferous applause. Judges found it difficult to decide the winners of money prizes among the following entries: Messrs. Pat Thompson, Lampasas, W. R. Webb, Gause, Kennard Hawkins, Curry, Tom Choat, Buckholts, D. D. Page, Austin, Henry Griffin, Marlow, W. B. Lewis, Jones Prairie, J. J. Wilson, Curry, Frank Luce, Sharp and T. M. Mabry, Salem.

It was decided that D. D. Page, aged 81, confederate fiddler from the state Confederate Home deserved first prize, a twenty dollar gold piece for his rendition of Dixie and the Bonnie Blue Flag. Tom Choate of Buckholts was voted a close second, T. M. Mabry of Salem was given third prize for his splendid playing.

For skill in old time jig dancing Messrs. Sam Murray, Pat Thompson, J. J. Wilson, W. W. Long entered the contest. Mr. Sam Murray won the five dollar prize over all competitors with Pat Thompson a close second. He was given three dollars. J. J. Wilson was given third place and a two dollar prize. Mr. John Thompson of Rogers in his sixty ninth year, not in the contest, to the accompaniment of two fiddlers played by his brothers, Sam Thompson of Rogers and Pat Thompson of Lampasas gave an exemplification of what an active man can do in cutting the pigeon wing when inspired by music. After the entertainment in the school auditorium crowds of people enjoyed a street dance. The merry crowd enjoyed an evening of unalloyed pleasure.

J. L. CLINTON BECAME FIDDLER AT EARLY AGE

RECALLS SQUARE DANCE IN HOME OF GRANDFATHER 42 YEARS AGO

J. L. Clinton in charge of the program for the old fiddlers contest believes that no more successful entertainment was ever held in Cameron than the contest on last Friday night.

Mr. Clinton is widely known for his ability as a violin player and learned to play when a lad of four years in Burleson county. During the program in company with Tom Choat from Buckholts, Mr. Clinton gave a most highly appreciated number.

"I remember a dance held at the home of my grandfather, L. Storm in Burleson county. I was a very small child. It was nearly 42 years ago. The three "Bills" were there, Bill Webb, Bill Crane and Bill Johnson, all of them noted Burleson county fiddlers. I listened that night intently and determined that I would make a fiddler. My father, J. W. Clinton bought me a fiddle in San Antonio and I began to practice. When I was 6 years old I began playing for dances."

W. R. (Bill) Webb, 76 years of age, took part in the contest Friday night. He is the same Bill Webb that inspired Mr Clinton to become a fiddler 42 years ago. Bill Johnson who resides at Chiesman could not attend and Bill Crane has been dead for many years.

The violin Mr. Clinton now plays has been in his possession for 30 years.

Miss Mildred Clinton, his daughter, is an accomplished violinist and plays much of the old time music taught her by her father.

Sam Murray Wins In Jig Dancing Event At Fiddlers Night

Sam Murray, well known in many counties of Central Texas as a dancer as well as jockey, won the first prize of $5 in the jig dancing at the school house on Friday night in competition with others.

Mr. Murray was the first of the contestants to dance and left no doubt in the minds of the judges as to his ability to cut the old time steps. He was roundly cheered. Pat Thompson of Lampasas was second with J. J. Wilson of Cameron third.

The dancing contest was made more interesting by reason of the fact that the men who participated are over 50 years of age.

The surprise feature of the entertainment was the playing and dancing of J. L., Sam and Pat Thompson of Rogers who came forward and voluntarily gave an entertainment.

BANKERS SURVEY STATE BANK LAWS

Find That Movement for State Guaranty of Bank Has Gone Into Eclipse.

New York.—A survey of state banking laws conducted by the State Bank Division of the American Bankers Association shows marked progress toward greater uniformity and more efficient bank supervision, it is declared by Frank W. Simmonds, in charge of the division, in a statement giving the results of the investigation. He says that the movement for state guaranty of bank deposits appears to have gone into eclipse.

"The division has urged that the office of bank commissioner be freed from politics and all other functions of state government and tenure be made more secure with sufficient compensation and discretion to attract men of outstanding ability," Mr. Simmonds says. "Gratifying progress has been made during the past year in important bank legislation in many states. Idaho, Wyoming and Oregon led the list by adopting entirely new modern banking codes, while Texas and Montana have new codes in preparation.

Uniformity Among State Laws

"The survey shows that it is generally agreed there should be a high degree of uniformity among the states in laws dealing with certain fundamental principles of bank organization, regulation and supervision, and that there is a strong tendency in this direction. We find a very definite trend toward increasing the minimum capital requirements of banks to $25,000; creation of banking boards to act in an advisory capacity with the state bank commissioner, and legislation empowering bank commissioners to take complete charge of insolvent banks and to liquidate them as distinguished from liquidation through the courts.

"We find also a trend toward legislation providing for closer supervision and regulation of building and loan associations; more equitable taxation of bank stock; legislation providing for merger, conversion or consolidation of banking institutions; the legalizing and regulating of what is known as 'departmental banking'; broadening the field for investment of funds of saving banks and trust companies, and increasing the power of the bank commissioner as to granting or denying charters for new banks, and authorizing his making reasonable rules and regulations governing bank management and prescribing penalties for the violation thereof.

"Additional general characteristics of state bank legislation are for increasing the compensation of the bank commissioner and lengthening his term of office of four, five or six years, with power to appoint necessary deputies and examiners; legislation providing for the reduction of mandatory bank calls to three and reducing the number of examinations required by law annually to one; making issuance of worthless checks a misdemeanor; limiting or prohibiting an officer or director of a bank borrowing from his bank unless his collateral is approved by a majority of the board of directors, and limiting or prohibiting the opening of branch banks.

Eclipse of Guaranty Movement

"The question of state guaranty of bank deposits appears this year to have passed into an eclipse, so far as the extension of the idea is concerned, notwithstanding the fact that state guaranty laws were recommended by the governors of two states, and bills were introduced in several of the states, all of which were defeated. The general tendency, so far as state guaranty of deposits laws are concerned, is distinctly the other way, the indications being that several states now having guaranty laws are trying to free themselves from this legislation. Oklahoma has abandoned the plan of state guaranty of deposits, and this year the South Dakota legislature has repealed the state guaranty law and has referred the repeal to the people at the next general election for ratification."

BANKERS RAISE FUND OF $500,000 FOR EDUCATION

Wizard Says Klan Is Not In Politics To Support Nobody

(Dallas News)

Membership in the Ku Klux Klan of America waxes and wanes, according to local conditions in various sections, said Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard, at the Adolphus Hotel Friday evening.

He is in Dallas, he said, as a part of a speaking tour of the country to oppose America's entry into the world court proposed by the League of Nations. He made an address on this subject Friday evening at Klan Hall, 421 1-2 North Harwood street. About 200 persons heard the address.

"While I maintain my residence in Texas, I am traveling out of Washington," Dr. Evans said. "But I am seldom there. I am on the road 360 days out of the 365 in the year. I will speak Saturday night in Greenville in opposition to America's entry into the world court and also in support of the eighteenth amendment to the Constitution."

On the subject of the status of the Ku Klux Klan of America, Dr. Evans said the membership waxes in Indiana and wanes in Maine, waxes in Ohio and wanes in California.

"For the last six months the Klan has been growing in Texas," he said. "The policies of the klan were not satisfactory for a while, but those policies have been changed and now the klan is completely out of politics. It will have no political tickets in Texas, and it is not interested in the candidacy of any man or woman."

Dr. Evans' term of office as imperial wizard expires this year, he said, and he intends to return to Dallas if some one else is elected to the office. The klan has no candidates for office, he explained, and whether he is elected to the office again rests entirely with the delegates attending the national klonvocation. No place has been selected yet for the klonvocation, he said, but it will probably be held somewhere in the middle west.

Dr. Evans arrived in Dallas Friday morning. He is accompanied only by his secretary, he said.

MORE TEXTILES FOR TEXAS

Few industries have developed to a greater extent in Texas during the past few years than has the textile industry. Since 1915 there has been an increase in the active number of cotton spindles of one hundred per cent and the value of the products created during the same period of time has increased over six hundred per cent.

Texas citizens have come to realize that there is little need of raising cotton near their own homes, shipping this to Northern States, and then paying the same states to ship back the same cotton made into cloth. Texas has a better class of labor than most states, it has efficient transportation facilities, and it has economical mediums of power with which to turn the wheels.

The best place for Texas money to be put is right here at home in Texas. We have just as capable executives as do the northern and eastern states and we are just as able to procure first class goods as anybody anywhere.

THE BOLL WEEVIL AND THE AIRPLANE

We need not be very much surprised in a few years to see airplanes by the score soaring low above the fields and emitting death dealing sprays of calcium arsenate to the boll weevils and other pests.

This method of killing the undesirable insects has proved very successful so far, and it seems as if it will develop itself into a real industry in the South. There should not be too great an expense about the operation for most farmers can go in together and the payments can be made on a pro-rata basis.

There is nothing complicated about the method used by the pest-killers. The plane sails along, close to the ground, and the vapor is shot through the exhaust in somewhat the same manner as smoke-writing is performed. It takes only a few hours for this blanket to settle and when it does—goodbye weevils.

All of which goes to prove that we are learning something every day.

MUD SLINGING

Candidates for the offices ofJustice of the Peace to Governor are announcing in every section of the state. The time is nearing for promises and charges and counter- charges. The promises are all right, but we will be glad to see the time when there are not so many charges made by rival candidates for office.

It seems as if the higher the office is, the more the various office-seekers strive to find out the low-down on their opponents. This is a tendency that should be stopped; and a man should be voted for, not because he has raked up some scandal upon the other man in the race, but because he is better fitted to fill the duties of the office which he seeks.

But in order not to feel so very bad about conditions at present, we do think that things are not as woeful as they used to be in this respect; and we hope the various races will gradually be run strictly on the merits of each man in the race, and not on the short comings of a competitor.

If this evil can be overcome, it will gain more respect for the office seeker; for the present day tendency keeps many a good man out of the battle. Few want to run if it means that their name and reputation must be besmirched by scandal, no matter whether it be true or false.

TRUTH IN ADVERTISING

Some years ago, the reader of a newspaper looked at each advertisement and then discounted what it said by about fifty per cent. There was a tendency for the advertiser to tell many things about his goods that were not strictly the truth.

Nowadays, however, the reader of a newspaper looks at the advertisements and knows that what the dealer says is the truth. The reader has become to believe in advertising, and the reason he has is because the merchants have found out that the average human being refuses to be hit in the same place twice. Of course, the ethical standards of business have also caused more truth in advertising, for merchants now know that it is better for the customer to be right than for themselves to be. But leaving the right and wrong out of the question, it is simply better policy to tell the exact condition of affairs.

Advertisements in the present day, almost wholl, mean what they say; and the merchant who tries to flim-flam the public with false statements is simply advertising his own doom.

WHY NATIONS FIGHT

The question of how to prevent war is not some remote and theoretical problem distant from our personal interests. It is the biggest question before the people of Texas and everywhere else today. People should be mulling it over in their minds and debating it in their public assemblies. It should come up from time to time in every church, school, college, club and business organization.

All nations claim to hate war, but a good many people still have the idea that they would rather fight than give up what they call questions of national honor. Of course situations are still conceivable that might make it necessary for everyone to take hold and support the government in making war. If some foreign nation attempted to invade American territory we would still in spite of all our abhorrence of war, have to take hold and repeal that invasion.

It is also conceivable that if some backward nation created conditions so intolerable and cruel that they were a disgrace and reproach to the world, it might be necessary to intervene. But wars of that character are usually settled by only a small display of force.

It seems inconceivable now that any nation will invade the United States, and highly improbable that for a very long time any first class European power will make war on its neighbors. People should beware of magnifying the causes of war, and think that it is worth fighting about comparatively minor issues. It is a fine thing to talk of national honor, but it does not necessarily make a nation more honorable to go to war for its rights, than it does for a man to enter into personal combat with people whom he thinks have trampled on his rights He settles such wrongs by legal processes now, and nations should do the same.

THE HUNGER FOR KNOWLEDGE

School authorities, library workers, etc, hear of many almost pitiful cases of people who have a positive hunger for learning, and are groping in an ignorant way toward this goal, but have very little idea how to reach it. These folks have come up from some family where they had very few advantages, and in many cases have had very little schooling. In these times when so many families are drifting around the country in cheap automobiles, without any settled homes, and without giving their children any regular education, there are likely to be many of these cases.

Such seekers of learning will apply to a teacher, minister, or some such educated person, and ask what they can do to get a little knowledge. Frequently they will borrow books, and try in a pathetic way to understand them, but lessons or subjects which would seem easy to a small child of the regular grades will seem almost impossible to them.

To many of these young people the printed page is a very tough proposition. They will struggle desperately to comprehend it, and after long effort they may seem to be making a little progress. The neighbors will discover them toiling over books and newspapers in their meager homes, laboriously spelling out words and trying to make some sense out of it all.

The heart of the community ought to go out to such people. There are some of them almost everywhere, willing to work for enlightenment. Many of them come through and overcome their difficulties and become thoroughly intelligent and achieving people. All of them get some reward for their efort. The community should go more than half way to meet them and give them a chance.

GARDENING

Poets and philosophers tell of the satisfactions obtained from cultivation of flower and vegetable gardens, but the practise is not as general as could be wished. In many places there is much less gardening than there was some years ago. People have too many things they want to do with their spare time.

In many cities and towns, however, the garden movement has been pushed as a community proposition. People have been urged in a systematic way to decorate their grounds with handsome shrubbery and flowers, and some of these communities have developed an amazing amount of this beautification. Such towns become noted, and every minute of time put in on those flower beds is no doubt paid for in the higher value of real estate that is established in such a town.

Such a community looks like a high class place, and people who drive through talk about it, and tell their friends that they wish they had homes there. That is good advertising for any community.

Home pride is the motif that can best be relied upon to promote the gardening movement. If you persuade one or two influential families on a street to spend a little more time and money beautifying their places this season, the majority of their neighbors would within a year or two fall into line and do the same thing. People dislike to drag behind their neighbor. People will usually do what their neighbors do.

As respects vegetables, the advantage of the back yard garden ought to be obvious in these times of high prices. The children of the modern community do not have enough share in the home tasks, and it would do them good to have some regular labors in a garden and they could well do a good deal of its work. But the old folks can not expect them thus to labor, unless they also are willing to do some stunts with the spade and hoe.

LIQUOR CRAZE ENGULFS HIGH SCHOOL STUDENTS

FREESTONE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENT DEPLORES BOOTLEGGING TRADE

Fairfield, Freestone Co., Texas, March 13.—Professing much concern for the boys under him, P. D. Browns, superintendent of the Fairfield schools has issued an open lefter to the patrons of his school district, in which he severely criticized those guilty of the law of the state and made an appeal in behalf of the lads, some of whom he states attend school while drinking.

"Today's organized evil seeks to amend or abolish the Volstead law and bring back light wines and beer," he says, adding "the Texas search and seizure law is a positive protection to the present illicit liquor traffic."

"I plead not for a single thing except some protection for my school boys," says Mr. Browne's letter. "Why don't some of you fathers check up a bit where the lads are spending their time? I believe the law gives a man the right to protect his family."

He further states: "It's no supposition but a fact that I have smelled liquor on schoolboy's breath, have seen one in a half sickened stupor in class from its effect, have had their acknowledgment that they had been drinking and have heard them discussing the merits of certain stimulants among themselves."

FELICITATIONS NOW EXCHANGE AT EASTER

The origin of the modern celebration of Easter dates back to ancient times. Long ago there was a feast in honor of the Teutonic goddess Ostera, who was the personification of the East, of the Morning and of Spring. The Anglo Saxon name was Eastre from which quite naturally comes the modern Easter.

The worship of Oestra was deeply rooted in northern Germany and was brought into England by the Saxons. The early missionaries, finding themselves unable to abolish the celebration, endeavored to change it into a Christian festival and give it a religious significance. This was more easily done than in some other instances for the joy at the rising sun the lengthening day, and the freeing of spring from the clutches of winter could quite easily be changed in thought to joy at the resurrection of Christ.

All of the ceremonies attending the observance of Easter were at first very simple but in the early part of the fourth century a decided change was brought about. Constantine decided to show his love of splendor by celebrating the festival with extraordinary pomp. Easter Sunday was accordingly filled with the most eloborate ceremonials and the most imposing services that could be devised.

While various ceremonies, sports, and superstitions have in times past characterized the day, and many of the old Easter customs are still practiced in different parts of the world, the occasion today is chiefly a church holiday and a season for the exchanging of felicitations among friends and relatives. This custom of exchanging greetings is growing and telegraph companies and greeting card publishers are taking advantage of the spirit of the occasion. The Western Union telegraph company has even publiished a phamplet containing a number of suggested messages which are appropriate for the occasion and offers a special colored Easter blank in attractive design.

Felix Matula Buys All Produce Farms Bring To His Store

Here is one Cameron merchant who never cries enough. Felix Matula for years has been buying every pound of produce brought to that store. He says no matter when the produce is brought to town or in what quantities, he always pays the highest market prices regardless of how much he may have on hand.

This is the kind of co-operation with the farmers we need, said a well known produce dealer. It is known that Mr. Matula is a large contributor to the annual volume of produce marketed here.

"I was afflicted with awful smothering spells. My mother had some Cardui in the house that she was taking, so she immediately began giving it to me. In a few days I got all right.

"Last fall I got run-down in health. I was weak and puny and I began to suffer with . . . I would get so I could hardly walk. Having taken Cardui before, I sent to the store for a bottle of it.

LYNCH DAVIDSON OPENS CAMPAIGN FOR GOVERNOR

Palestine, Texas, March 13, 1926.—The plea for "more business in government and less government in business" which Lynch Davidson carried to every corner of Texas in a flivver automobile two years ago, was sounded again in a ringing address delivered by the former lieutenant governor at Palestine Saturday, when he formally opened his second campaign for the governorship of Texas.

Palestine was chosen for the opening address by Mr. Davidson on invitation of friends, who urged the appropriateness of that city because of his rehabilitation of the State Railroad and bringing the Southern Pacific Lines there. An overflow crowd attended the rally and applauded his message enthusiastically. Many expressed a prophecy of victory in the staging of the opening at the home of the illustrious John H. Reagan and the late Governor Tom Campbell.

Mr. Davidson presented in clear, concise language the problems and issues confronting the state; outlined the measures required to solve them, and set forth the qualifications and abilities which he said a governor must have to administer the state government successfully.

He deplored the system of electing public officials by political blocs and groups, which he asserted defeated his own candidacy before, and named the party nominee with less than 10 per cent of the voting population. He warned against professional politicians, and scorned campaign mud-slinging, muck-raking and personal abuse.

"The questions for you to ask," he told the voters, "are:

"What does the candidate who presents himself for public office know about the particular things that belong to the economic and political system of our land, and how deeply does he sympathize with the millions of average citizens who are making the United States the great nation it is today? What competency, ability and training has he to deal successfully with the vast complex economic system of this great state? What capacity has he to hold the scales of justice even, and to give equal opportunity to all men in working out their own welfare and the welfare of their families?"

For his own qualifications he cited 35 years of practical and successful business experience, beginning as a sheep herder and day laborer; four years as state legislator, senator and lieutenant-governor, and a thorough understanding of the state's business and institutional problems.

More Business in Government

"My candidacy," he said, "may be summarized by saying that I am not the candidate of any bloc or group. I am a believer in honesty and integrity in government; more economy and efficiency; less taxes and fewer state jobs; less laws and quicker justice; pay as we go and keep the state on a cash basis; administration of the law by the duly constituted authorities; education in the full meaning of the term; better educational facilities; better, broader and longer highways, and honesty and integrity in the administration of the highway system.

"Rehabilitation and reorganization of the penitentiary system; conservation of the natural resources of the state, and control of its flood waters. Conserving the backbone industry of the country—farming—by all legitimate means of governmental cooperation and sympathy. Conserve the welfare of labor—the man who earns his living by the sweat of his brow; preserve and perpetuate the fundamental principles of democracy and be on guard against centralizing governmental powers. Retain the rights of the state. Safeguard the public health."

The first campaign issue discussed by the candidate was that of what he termed "the raid on our mineral resources by gigantic corporations." This, he asserted, "is a danger that looms like an elephant over a mouse, as contrasted to the disgraceful disclosures that have occurred in the present administration of our highway affairs."

Primary Election Law

Nomination of candidates for public office against the will of the majority is an ill of the present primary election law which makes it a failure, Mr. Davidson declared, and frequently leaves in the second primary no choice but the lesser of two evils.

"There is no greater need today than the reformation of our election laws," he added. "I have no panacea or cure-all for the evils of the Texas primary system, but believe that a second choice would improve conditions. Provide for a second choice candidate on the ballot, and make it mandatory for the voter to name a second choice."

Incidentally, he declared that the application of civil service rules to state employes would greatly improve the administration of the state's affairs and largely eliminate the political pie counter.

Another business innovation in the state government proposed was that of an auditing department to check thoroughly the business of every department of state regularly. This, he said, would prevent misuse of state funds and improper conduct of the state's business affairs.

Legislative Personnel

No branch of government, he continued, is more important to the efficient and economical administration of state government than the legislature, and he expressed a deep concern for the careful selection of its personnel.

"The vision and ability of your legislator ought to be as broad as if he were being elected your governor, and great care should be exercised in his selection. In effecting the principles and policies I advocate, I shall need the cooperation of the legislature.

Reduced and Simplified Taxation

"All of our state problems must be harmonized with taxation, for through taxation must the revenue be provided to conduct all phases of government. And the amount of taxes should be no greater than is required for the economical conduct of state government and its institutions.

"Our methods of levying and collecting taxes have become expensive and haphazard. We have reached the point in our governmental development where readjustment and business methods of levying and collecting taxes are necessary to simplify the system and to equalize and lower taxation. I advocate such economies in government and change in the taxing system as will bring about that result.

"Immediately upon the convocation of the legislature after I am elected governor, I shall ask the legislature for the appointment of a joint house and senate committee to confer with me in working out a plan to equalize and simplify the tax law, and lower the rate of taxation. I propose to invite the people of Texas to have delegates of their own selection to join in and become members of that committee to assist in effecting what I am determined to accomplish—a simplification of the taxing system, and an equalization of and a reduction in taxes.

"If the legislature shall pass a bill increasing the tax on any person or any property in this state, I will stand between the legislature and the tax payer and veto such a bill."

Business and Economy

There are numerous state institutions the reorganization of which would bring about the saving of large sums of money and at the same time improve them in efficiency, the candidate declared, if economy and good management hold hands in the undertaking. In that connection he said:

"I believe several millions of state expenditures are pure waste, and I propose, in my first message to the legislature, to go after one piece of business—the return to the pockets of the people of Texas all monies wastefully expended."

As evidence of the room for such savings, he pointed out that while the population of Texas during the past 10 years has increased only 25 per cent, and the state's wealth, as shown by tax renditions, has increased only 56 per cent, yet the cost of administering the departments of state government has increased over 300 per cent. These conditions, he said, can be cured by electing men to office with training and ability to exercise good judgment in the management of the state's affairs, and to practice the best economics in the disbursement of its funds.

Most of the remainder of Mr. Davidson's address was devoted to a discussion of the methods through which he proposed to effect these economies, and of the problems involved in the various divisions of government.

The Judiciary

First taking up economy in the judiciary, he said:

"I believe that certain readjustments in our judiciary system will render the work of that branch of government more economical, as well as more efficient and expeditious. Quick, simple justice is of paramount importance. The poor man must have both quick and simple decisions from our courts. The law's delays are notoriously in favor of the rich. As governor, I shall endeavor to bring about such readjustments."

Bureaus and Commissions

By abolishing the useless bureaus and commissions, and properly consolidating those whose activities overlap, the candidate proposed to serve the dual purpose of saving Texas close to a million dollars annually, and relieving the people of "interfering, intruding, irritating activities" of those bureaus and commissions.

In this same connection, Mr. Davidson deplored the stagnation and discouragement caused private enterprise and industry by government regulation and red tape.

"The state," he declared, "should foster and attract industries, and it would be my purpose to move in every direction consonant with the office of governor to attract capital to Texas for the purpose of developing all industries. Upon this depends in a large measure the full dinner pail and the prosperity of labor."

Educational Improvements

Mr. Davidson characterized the problem of education as one of the most important in all phases of government, and treated it at length.

"It is to be deplored," he said, "that Texas does not stand at the top of the ladder educationally. It will be my idea to put it there, and I shall ask for the cooperation of the splendid men and women at the head of and a part of our educational institutions. The very perpetuity of our government demands an educated citizenry. The money that is properly and judiciously expended for education is not an expense but an INVESTMENT that will yield large returns.

"Our facilities in both the rural and public schools, and in the institutions of higher learning, are lacking and inadequate, and there must be a constant forward movement in the upbuilding of those facilities and accommodations. Our entire school system, from the little red school house on the hill to our most advanced educational institutions, must be provided the means of expansion to meet the needs of a great and growing state and a constantly increasing population.

"I shall stand, when elected governor, for liberal appropriations to all of our educational institutions."

The candidate pointed out that it takes cold, hard cash to provide the children of Texas with the educational opportunities to which they are entitled, and that for that reason all governmental activities should be harmonized with those of education and taxation. "Whenever a department of state functions extravagantly and is wastefully administered, we can but say to ourselves, 'That takes another school day from the children of Texas'."

Text Book Law

He advocated the redrafting of the text book law, so as to take out its political elements and remove the room for constant criticism that has followed its administration.

Eleemosynary institutions, Mr. Davidson said, should be given the same care and consideration as the schools, and no proper means should be spared to provide for the unfortunates therein.

Penitentiary System

Mr. Davidson reiterated the plan of centralizing, reorganizing and rehabilitating the penitentiary system which he has been urging for more than half a decade. By concentrating the 14 separate plants of the present system, which are scattered all over the state, into one central institution, in a healthful climate near the seat of government, he said a great financial drain would be stopped. Under the same plan, he declared, vocational, educational and religious training could be better given, and the inmates would have a better chance to be rehabilitated and restored to society useful men and women.

"We can not solve the fundamental problems of the penal system unless we solve its financial problems," he said. "There is approximately $8,000,000 invested in the system. There are some 80,000 acres of farming lands, 14 different plants, with all kinds of farming implements, which in my judgment can be liquidated into enough money to rebuild and centralize our penal institutions, and in addition, turn considerable money back into the treasury of Texas. Enough land can be retained with our present plants to salvage them and convert them into other state institutions.

Pardon Power

The speaker said that the pardon power should be used wisely and carefully, and should not be made a political instrument. He proposed to grant pardons only when convinced the greatest good to society and justice to the individual could be accomplished by so doing.

Highways

Discussing the state highway problem, he said, in part:

"I favor the earliest possible completion, consonant with the economic expenditure of funds, of a connected system of highways, both state and lateral, connecting all agricultural communities with their markets and commercial center with commercial center. I favor the construction of state roads with state and federal funds, leaving the counties their own funds to construct the roads that will best serve their own people. I favor a decided reduction in the automobile license fees, with a compensating increase in the gasoline tax. I favor an equitable distribution of the automobile license fees and gasoline tax between the state and the counties, so that both systems will receive their just proportion of the monies so obtained.

"By the force of statute, the counties should have more say in the awarding of contracts for major or lateral highways constructed in their counties and the type of road to be constructed. Balance awarding of contracts between county and state so there will be a check upon the state by the counties and upon the counties by the state. It will safeguard the interest of the people and the tax payer and insure the awarding of contracts to the lowest bidder and the most capable contractor."

The present highway "scandal", Mr. Davidson said, deserved the condemnation of every right thinking citizen. He declared that the criticism of the highway department was "manifestly just." He said that the proper spending of $18,000,000 to $20,000,000, which is vested in the highway commission, requires brains and technical training, as well as responsibility.

"Our highway laws should be revised to safeguard the misuse of public funds and fix definite responsibility upon those who administer the law."

Laws and Enforcement

Mr. Davidson promised to use all the power at his command, as governor, to enforce the laws of Texas. And in this connection he recalled the aphorism that "those least governed are best governed." Individual rights, enterprise, initiative and individualism, he said, are hampered by too many laws, and moreover, they are very costly to government and the tax payer.

"I am for eliminating the excessive laws and bettering those remaining, thus safeguarding their enforcement. There are many archaic, obsolete and unnecessary laws on the statute books that might well be repealed."

LYNCH DAVIDSON

Woman Suffrage

Declaring himself an original supporter of woman suffrage, he said that all civil and political rights should inure to women that are possessed by men. "I would further protect and exempt woman from obligations that would bring unnecessary burdens upon the mother of the race," he added.

Prohibition

"A lifelong prohibitionist, I am against any plan, program or scheme that undertakes to restore the liquor traffic. And I favor the stern enforcement of the prohibition laws of the state and nation. No greater curse ever beset the human race than its arch-enemy, liquor."

Flood Control, Water Conservation

He advocated the protection of the people and their products in the river valleys of Texas against periodical overflows, by a system of levees and dams. Through a constructive program of flood control and water conservation by which the public welfare would be protected, he said, capital could be induced to make the waterways of Texas a great asset.

The Farmer's Problem

Taking up the cudgel for the farmer, as he did in his previous campaign, the former lieutenant-governor asserted that upon the farmer's success depends the success of all others, yet that no class of people in the land have less economic independence and enjoyment of life than the farmer. As a remedy for his ills, cooperative marketing was suggested.

"There will be no cure for the farmer's problem so long as each individual farmer peddles his crop from door to door with a sample in his hands. There will be no cure so long as middlemen in skyscrapers in the cities tell the farmers of the country the price they must take for their product; so long as these selfsame middlemen speculate and gamble on the product of the greatest and most important business in the nation—farming. A first essential to the success of producers is that they must control the sale of and regulate their output.

"The middleman can be jarred loose from his strangle hold upon the farmers when the farmers themselves, by some process, control and market 50 to 60 per cent of their output. It seems that cooperative marketing institutions are a nucleus around which a proper, effective and efficient selling organization can be established.

"As governor of Texas, it shall be my purpose to cooperate in every reasonable way to assist the farmers in accomplishing this great need."

Labor

Next he discussed his views on labor, stating that "when I am elected governor of Texas, labor will find no friend more sympathetic, more sincere in that sympathy, more ready to promote its welfare with due regard to the rights of every other citizen of Texas than I."

"It was in labor's ranks I spent all the days of my minority," he recalled, "as well as many years of my majority. By the sweat of my brow, and in the rank and file of labor, I learned the lessons of life and earned its compensations. I experienced its financial difficulties far along in life, and no man has a more sympathetic understanding of its needs and necessities. Labor and capital have their controversies. Good government holds the scales of justice even and weighs out a square deal to each."

State's Rights

Of all political and legislative activities, the candidate said he viewed none of them with more alarm as a destroyer of state's rights than that class of legislation known as federal aid. Federal aid for post roads and public health might be justified, he granted, but in practically all other instances, aid offered by the federal government is "a financial sop that insidiously breaks down the rights of the state."

"To contribute enormous sums of taxes to the federal government for their re-distribution to the states, less enormous administration costs, is manifestly illogical and ridiculous. It is more dangerous to sound governmental principles. Laws already enacted granting federal aid, we must perforce avail ourselves of. We pay the taxes, and once the federal aid law is enacted it would be a case of cutting off our noses to spite our faces if we failed to take the funds allotted to us under such acts, because other states would take our part of the money if we did not take it.

"But I view with apprehension and am opposed to all principles of law making that tend to wipe out state lines in government."

Ku Klux Klan

Mr. Davidson reiterated his opposition to the Ku Klux Klan, "or any other secret society which seeks to control the politics of the state or to arrogate to itself the enforcement of the laws." He said that "no public issue has ever caused more discord and strife and it is to be hoped the people of Texas will not permit it to again disturb their peace and prosperity and array neighbor against neighbor."

Public Health

Concerning public health, he declared in favor of requiring every person proposing to doctor the human race physically to qualify as competent before a legally constituted and capable examining board or committee.

Running on His Merits

In conclusion, former Lieutenant Governor Lynch Davidson said:

"I am not the candidate of any bloc, association or organization of any kind or character. A rock-ribbed democrat in politics, of Methodist persuasion in religion, my candidacy is that of an independent Texas citizen subject to the rules and regulations of the Democratic party and its primaries. Party regularity is my creed, and I cast my vote always for the nominee of the party.

"My candidacy is before the people of Texas upon the principles and policies stated in this address. Into the affairs of the government of the State of Texas, I solemnly promise to carry an experience and ability that will restore it to tranquility, peace and harmony and put it upon a sound financial basis.

"I will take the helm of state unhampered unrestrained and uncontrolled by any group, bloc or class of people seeking to serve their own special interest. It will be my endeavor to give each and every citizen of Texas, regardless of their affiliations or associations a fair, square deal. To the best of my ability it will be my earnest effort to hold the scales of justice even to all alike.

"I shall go into office conscious of its exacting responsibilities. It shall be my purpose to meet them and to respond fairly and fearlessly to the demands of each and every citizen of Texas, be he high or low."

This address was the opening gun of a intensive campaign which Mr. Davidson says he planned to conduct throughout the state until the July primaries.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Hints For Helping

Don't throw away your wash tub when it gets a small leak. Get a can of white enamel and apply it to the crack. Let this coat dry and then repeat the operation three or four times. You will find that the leak will then be stopped.

Lots of times bedsprings become shabby around the edges. Do not keep them out of sight and lose lots of service because of this, but sew some attractive trimming around the edges. They will look just as good as new and will give you more years of service.

RECIPES

Dainty Orange Jelly

Take a couple of tablespoonfuls of gelatin powder and a half cup of cold water. Soak the powder in the water for thirty-five minutes and then ad two cups of boiling water. A cupful of orange juice is then added. When this is thoroughly mixed, it is strained and set to harden. It is served with whipped cream and cake.

STYLE NOTE

Waist lines are gradually moving upword toward their natural position. Taffeta dresses with wide skirts seem best suited for this tendency. Slender waists have the advantage, as the other kind necessarily needs a corset for this style.

THE MOVIES

Rudolph Valentino has denied that he intends to marry Pola Negri. The actor stated he had a bet up for $50,000 that he would not wed before 1930, and that was too much money to lose.

The gray locks of Charlie Chaplin have become a glossy black again. The comedian has dyed his hair as the role he will take in his next play demands black hair.

MRS. WALTER H. CLARK

Mrs. Walter H. Clark was buried Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock p. m. in the Locklin Cemetery at San Gabriel on the eightieth anniversary of her birth. Rev. W. O. Dallas, pastor of the First Christian church of Taylor, had charge of the funeral ceremonies. A special quartette of San Gabriel friends furnished the funeral music and by special request as they had done at her husband's funeral three years ago they sang a southern melody well beloved by both Mr. and Mrs. Clark, "When You and I Were Young Maggie." The preacher quoted a verse of a favorite song which Mrs. Clark had expressed a desire to have used at her funeral: 'Somewhere, somewhere, I soon shall be called to go across the cold river of death, and reach that Heavenly shore. Will someone I know at the beautiful gate, be waiting and watching for me."

A sketch of life of the deceased was read and an eloquent tribute was paid to her memory. The pall bearers were lifelong friends, Messrs. Hardin H. Camp, E. A. Outlaw, W. A. Bonds, John Young, F. Johnson and Leonard Locklin. Despite inclement weather a long procession of relatives, friends and neighbors followed the cortege to Locklin Cemetery and covered her grave and that of her husband with beautiful flowers. The war record of her gallant husband was recalled during the obsequies. Captain Walter H. Clark was a southern soldier who endured the horrors of war as an officer of company H, seventh regiment. Govan's Brigade, Hardie's Division of the army of Tennessee. With her husband Mrs. Clark often attended reunions of his Confederate Comrades and she cherished the history and memories of the south.

Mrs. Clark's maiden name was Frances Wilson. She was born at Newton Catawba County, North Carolina on March 14, 1846. She was the thirteenth child of her parents, Nathaniel and Mary Wilson, and was one of the eight daughters. She taught school when only fourteen years of age. She was married to Captain Walter H. Clark in Kansas on December 11, 1873. She was the second wife of Captain Clark, his first wife being her sister, Almena Wilson. Her sister had left four children, Lorena, Zora, Mallie, Birdie and Walter, Jr. These children who died in early life and two grandchildren, Mrs. Leo Wilkerson of Cameron and Mrs. Ed Fipps of San Gabriel received Mrs. Clark's tenderest care. She is survived by Mesdames Wilkerson and Fipps and their children, Zora Clark and Leola Marie Wilkerson and Amos, Willie and Clark Fipps and a number of nieces and nephews.

After the death of her husband of July 2nd, 1923, Mrs. Clark made her home with her grand daughter, Mrs. Leo Wilkerson in Cameron where she was looked after with patient care and treated with greatest respect and reverence. She had been spending the winter months with Mrs. Fipps at her old home in San Gabriel. She contracted flu on Tuesday. This rapidly developed into pneumonia from which she died on Saturday, March 13, 1926. Mrs. Clark was a lifelong member of the Christian church. She was a pioneer of San Gabriel. Mrs. Clark taught the young people to sing by note and fostered a literary society at her home to which all were made welcome. The culture of the present community is founded upon the efforts of the early pioneer men and women of San Gabriel. Mrs. Clark will long be remembered for her kindness and charity.

No tongue or pen could express the homage due to the noble pioneers and the wonderful history they have made. A noble heritage has been left to their successors. Benevolent religion and social life has been enriched by their lives, and modern progress can only be sustained by the present generation emulating the virtues of the pioneers like Mrs. Walter H. Clark.

SHOULD PERMIT TAX EXEMPTIONS FOR INDUSTRY

The writer is just in receipt of a very interesting letter from Mr. Fred T. Newell, secretary Industrial bureau ,the Chamber of Commerce of Atlanta Ga., in which he advises that the State of Georgia, in order to induce manufacturing industries to locate there, amended its constitution, allowing county and city units to exempt certain industries for a period of five years. The following is a copy of the paragraph adopted:

"Any person, natural or artificial, a resident of this state, who may, after Jan. 1, 1924, build, equip, establish or enlarge a plant for the manufacture or processing of cotton, wool, linen, silk, rubber, clay wood, metal, metallic or nonmetallic mineral or combination of same, creamery or cheese plant; or for the production or development of electricity may, as to such building, enlargement or equipment be exempt from all county, incorporated town or city ad valorem taxes for a period of five years from the date of the beginning of the building, enlargement or equipment of such plants. The Legislature is herewith empowered to make provisions for the operation of this paragraph by appropriate legislation, provided such exemptions shall be approved by a majority of the electors voting in such county, incorporated town or city proposing said exemption."

This measure is something that certainly deserves the attention of every member of the Legislature of the state of Texas, and every man in Texas who is anxious to keep the price of cotton up and to give our state more industries should give his endorsement to this proposition. Every candidate for the State Legislature should have his attention called to this and the Commercial Clubs throughout and the Commercial Clubs throughout Texas should know of the step that Georgia has taken and to post themselves as to the number of industries now locating and which have located in Georgia since the adoption of this amendment.

There will be some who will not agree that this is a good step toward the development of the state, but, to say the least of it, I believe you will agree that it is worth one's due consideration. Just think of the people who would be employed.

The Cotton Outlook

The demand for the 1926 crop of cotton probably will not be sufficient to absorb a crop as large as that of 1925 except at reduced prices. Costs of production will probably be about the same as in 1925 and growers would do well to proceed with care when planning their acreage for the present year. For the past two seasons the rate of world production of cotton has exceeded the rate of world consumption with the result that stocks are not yet burdensome as a whole, further material increases might easily make them so. The conditions under which the new crop will be marketed are somewhat uncertain but there is no marked indication that the mill demand will exceed that of the present season.—U. S. SCIENCE NOTES

There are at present one hundred and seventy eight different makes of automobiles in the world. The makes include seven hundred and seventy models.

It took the feathers of ninety thousand geese to fill the pillows of a modern hotel.

An iceboat has been invented that will make a speed of ninety miles an hour. It has an airplane propellor.

Living bacteria have been found as deep in the earth as 1000 feet.

There are rocks in South Dakota that are over fifteen hundred years old.

Seven dollars damage is done by soot and smoke to every person each year in the United States, on an average.

RADIO

A radio has been invented that can be worked by passengers in a lifeboat. Salt spray has always been a hindrance for this before. Dials are seen thru a sort of porthole and a water tight glove and sleeve is used for the operation.

A new dial gives true straight line frequency tuning by the use of a can that slides in a grove cut in a spiral. A full circle is used for rotation. Logging is thus made much easier.

Shock Melts Nails In Shoes of Rosebud Boy From Wire On Kite

SHOCK MELT FREAK 14 -? ?- -?--

Gaston Gibbs, 15, was painfully injured near here this morning when the current from a high voltage electric wire passed through his body—partially knocking away three fingers on his right hand, rendering him unconscious and melting the tacks in his shoe soles.

He was flying a kite at the home of hi sfatfier, Robert Gibbs, two miles northeast of here, and had spliced the string with bailing wire so as to get more height. The wire came in contact with high line passing through his body.

Weldon Gibbs, 18, a brother and former Boy Scout, saw the accident and rushed to the victim's aid. Gaston was apparently lifeless, but within seven minutes he was breathing again and was soon revived by artificial respiration. He was rushed to a hospital in Cameron and is exepected to recover.

SUCCESS IN AMERICA AN OPEN HIGHWAY

How Four Boys of Humble Origin Have Become Chiefs of the Greatest Financial Organization in the World.

Broad highways of achievement are wide open to all in America no matter how humble their beginning, it is brought out by a writer in Forbes Magazine, telling of the successive elevation of poor boys to the chieftainship of the most powerful association of financial power in the world.

"Nowhere is opportunity so democratic as in caste-free America, nowhere is recognition for faithful service so little conditioned by inherited position and wealth," the article says. "The bounty of America in bestowing her rewards of great success upon those of modest origin is again notably manifest in the rise of Oscar Wells to the presidency of the American Bankers Association.

"The son of a tanner, John H. Puelicher, was elected to this eminence in 1922. Circumstances ended his public schooling in the seventh year and he went to work in a carpet store in Milwaukee. At sixteen he entered a bank as a clerk, rising step by step until he became president. Recognition of his abilities as a banker and civic service through public education in sound economic understanding brought him the highest reward from his profession.

"A former country school teacher, Walter W. Head, born in a farm hamlet in Western Illinois, was elected president of the association in 1923. He gave up teaching and a salary of $75 to enter banking at $40 a month in a small Missouri town. He subsequently became president of a bank in Omaha, the largest in Nebraska and a dozen neighboring states. The position he occupied in advancing agricultural welfare during the period of depression led to his being called the 'Granger President of the American Bankers Association.'

"From Irish immigrant lad to supreme head of banking in America epitomizes the career of William E. Knox, president of one of the largest savings banks of the country in New York. His business career began as an office boy in a publishing house, and he later entered the bank as a clerk. Experience with humble people in their problems of personal finance and his inculcation of economy in all matters attracted country-wide attention.

"Oscar Wells, who rises in 1925 as successor of these men, was born in an old weather-boarded log cabin house in the Missouri River bottoms of Platte County, Missouri. He became an orphan when three years of age, losing his parents in an epidemic that ravaged the countryside. He passed under the care of an uncle, head of a small country bank in Platte City, a town of a few hundred inhabitants, growing up on a farm and receiving his early education in a rural school. He later entered Bethany College, West Virginia, but at the end of his junior year he had to quit college and go to work in the bank."

His subsequent career was one of steady progress, first to higher positions among small country banks, then to larger city banks in Texas, where he rose to the top. In 1914 he was chosen first governor of the Dallas Federal Reserve Bank and served through the opening period of the establishment of that institution. He resigned to become president of a bank in Birmingham, Alabama, which has grown under his administration to be one of the largest and most successful institutions in the South.

HUGE GROWTH IN SCHOOL SAVINGS

New York.—School savings in the United States for the year 1924-1925 increased in aggregate bank balances by $5,500,000, with a growth of 630,000 in the total number of pupils participating, it is shown in reports made to the American Bankers Association, which declares that the returns encourage belief in the permanence of school savings as a part of the educational program in the public schools.

During the year the number of reporting school savings systems increased from 683 in 742 districts to 760 in 1,557 districts, the number of schools from 9,080 to 10,163, the number of pupils participating from 2,236,326 to 2,869,497, the deposits from $14,991,535.40 to $16,961,560.72 and the bank balances from $20,135,144.64 to $25,913,431.15, says W. E. Albig, in charge of the Association's savings activities.

Since 1920, the first year for which comprehensive statistics are available, the number of schools having school savings banking has increased 271.4 per cent, the enrollment in school savings districts 278.9 per cent, participants 520.2 per cent, deposits 506.1 per cent and bank balances 516.3 per cent.

Local Shoe Man Makes A Special Study Of Feet

Friends of Max S. Gralinck of The Leader Store will be glad to learn that he has just completed a course of study in the American School of Practipedics, Chicago. This course is one that has to do with scientific shoe fitting and the elimination of foot and shoe troubles through the appliances invented by Dr. Wm. M. Scholl, the well known authority on the feet.

According to Mr. Gralinck many people have gone along for years, suffering untold distress with fallen arches, weak ankles, cramped toes, corns, callouses and bunions, etc., not knowing relief was a very simple matter.

He says that he is prepared to show anybody who has foot trouble that this is so. By eliminating these foot troubles, he also declares, neat, stylish shoes can be worn with perfect comfort.

Through this special training Mr. Gralinck has discovered that most shoe troubles can be traced directly to foot troubles. In the majority of cases of where shoes break down and wear out sooner than they should, it is not the fault of the shoes, but to weak and broken down arches, weak ankles or some abnormal foot condition. When the foot trouble is corrected through the use of the proper Dr. Scholl Appliance, shoes will give much more satisfactory service.

Educational Progress in Rural Schools of Milam

(By Mrs. Kathryn K. Robbins)
Written for Rockdale Reporter

Educational programs are not wrought out over night so to speak, or even in one generation, and in that respect Milam County has not been an exception. The growth has been gradual but ever toward better conditions for teachers and pupils. The citizenship of Milam County is no longer satisfied with poor and inadequate equipment, uncomfortable buildings and inferior teaching. Only a few buildings of that type are left to remind us of those primitive days in education.

Previous to 1890, Milam County had no superintendent of rural schools but the Commissioner's Court and the County Judge did what was done for these districts. In 1890, W. A. Morrison, our present chairman of the County Board of Education ,a man who has always been deeply interested in the education of our rural children, led in the movement which gave Milam County her first county superintendent. Captain J. F. Thompson, a graduate of the University of Mississippi, father of Mrs. Meta McCown, was the first county superintendent appointed and he served until 1894.

His successor, J. K. P. Newton, a much beloved teacher and preacher in the Maysfield community served from 1894 to 1896. His life was a benediction to all those he was fortunate enough to touch and not only through his life as a Christian teacher but through the consecrated lives of a large family of sons and daughters has this county been richly blessed.

In 1896, F. J. Clement, a man who has given more than twenty five years of his life to this work, and who is to day teaching in one of our rural schools was elected to this important position.

He was succeeded in 1904 by W. G. Gillis, who has been a leading figure in affairs in this county for a number of years and who as a teacher, as County Superintendent, as County Judge and as a Christian gentleman has been an exemplary one. Judge Gillis was followed by Mr. J. F. Clement who served a second term.

In 1914, Mr. James F. Chadwick was elected to this position. Mr. Chadwick served in this capacity five terms and during those years, strides in education were made. During his administration 30 new frame buildings and two brick buildings for white schools were built, eight frame additions to buildings were made; four frame buildings for negroes were erected and funds made available for the erection of two new buildings. In 1914, 21 school districts had no local taxes, while in 1924, forty six districts had tax rates of fifty cents and more, twenty one of this number having a rate of 75 cents. During the term year period, forty seven districts increased their tax rate, while eleven made no increase.

From 1914 to 1924 nine consolidations were effected as follows: San Gabriel, Conoley, Salty, New Salem, Hoyte, Branchville, Jones Prairie, Sharp, and Fairview.

Mr. Chadwick was followed by Mrs Kathryn K. Robbins in 1924. During the year of 1925, five school districts raised their taxes to seventy-five cents on the $100 valuation making it possible for them to secure rural aid from the state and at the same time give to themselves the feeling of satisfaction that comes from conscious effort put forth for local improvement. Only those who are willing to help themselves can enjoy the comforts that are made possible by state aid. Four new buildings were completed during the past year and teachers and pupils are enjoying to the fullest extent the delightful change from hand made benches, poor lighting and heating, and little or no equipment to beautiful systems, and up to date equipment.

School boards are in a position to offer salaries that will attract teachers well qualified for the positions. Salaries do not make teachers, but our schools can not hope to get the best teachers until they are in position to compete with other schools who are offering the best inducements to men and women to stay in their community year after year and to stay in the profession rather than seek more lucrative employment in other lines of endeavor. Again, higher salaries have given to our teachers the opportunity to study. This possibly has wrought the greatest change in our educational scheme. Whereas in 1916 over sixty per cent of our teachers held second grade or county certificates, today only twelve per cent hold second grade State certificates. It is folly to think that better school conditions are the outcome of mere chance. These same teachers who have been able to equip themselves for better work have returned to the school room with more enthusiasm and determination to improve the conditions with which our rural children are surrounded. Through the pupils, they have reached the homes, and improved educational advantages have been the result.

Longer shool terms are also the result of state aid and special school tax. Although the state makes it compulsory that children attend school five months, our people are by no means satisfied to see our students in the rural districts surpassed by those in the urban districts because of a nine month's term. Many school terms have been lengthened until at the present time we have twenty-four schools that have an eight months term thirty with seven months, making fifty four out of a total of one hundred and eight. The white schools now have an average of seven months' term Although this may appear very low it is a decided increase from the average term of five and one half or six months' term ten years ago.

One of the most important educational movements in this country was the organization of a County School Board in 1911. This school board selected as their chairman W. A. Morrison and for fifteen years Mr. Morrison has served in this capacity faithfully and efficiently. Working with him on the first board were C. M. Beard, Walter Baggett, E. A. Flinn and J. E. Watts, names familiar to many of our people. Today the board is comprised of John C. Scott of Rockdale, B .R. Thompson of Sharp, J. R. Wallace of Yarrelton, Thos. A. Fisher and W. A. Morrison of Cameron. The sound judgment, fair-minded, earnestness of purpose, general information and interest in the schools of this county which is possessed by the personnel of this board has meant much of the progress for our educational interests. Their services willingly and gladly rendered with no thought of remuneration is a rebuke to all those who would inquire what pay is to be given in return for services of this kind.

Such have been a few of the accomplishments and the type of leadership in education, this county has had since the appointment of our first County Superintendent. There is not much to be told in words but let us hope that there has been more than mere tangible evidence of progress. May there be a wholesome sentiment in favor of public education which will grow until the schools of Milam County will be second to none. May such investments in life in the service of youth in this county pay large dividends not only to the leaders themselves but to the State and county which they have chosen to serve.

"Some one recommended Black-Draught. I began using it. I found it so very satisfactory I have used it ever since. I wouldn't be without it.

"My work is inside. I do not get as much exercise as I would like, and at times my system gets clogged and I would see the necessity of a good active medicine.

"After one or two doses of Black-Draught, my head clears up and I feel like new.

Thirteen Year Old Chevrolet Run 260,000 Miles By Owner

A thirteen-year-old Chevrolet has been driven more than 260,000 miles by A. R. M. Stone, stationary broker of 6135 Wagner Ave., St Louis, Mo., who believes his machine is the oldest Chevrolet still in active service. The mileage represents more than 10 trips around the world.

Mr. Stone, a former locomotive engineer, purchased the car in 1913, the first year of Chevrolet production. The loss of a leg had incapacitated him for railroad work. In order to operate both the clutch and brake pedals with his one foot he connected them with a cross bar. This enabled him to throw out the clutch and apply the brakes in one operation. He drives from 60 to 100 miles daily within a radius of 40 miles of St. Louis.

Mr. Stone says he has replaced the car top and in addition has spent only $4.00 for replacement of parts. The Chevrolet has averaged 25 miles per gallon, he says. The car thus far has burned about 10,400 gallons of gasoline or approximately the capacity of two railroad tank cars.

Hudson-Essex Co. Announces Second Price Reduction

Further price reductions in Hudson and Essex cars are announced by the Tire Store in this week's Herald. This reduction was made possible by the removal of the sales tax.

The Hudson-Essex line now represents the largest makers of six-cylinder automobiles, it is said, and the new Essex is proving a very popular car in local circles.

SLEDGE HOUSTON GIVES UP AFTER GUN FIGHT

G. A. WHITE, CONSTABLE SLAIN IN STREET AT CALDWELL SATURDAY

(Temple Telegram)

After a twelve hour fight for his life, Garrett A. White, constable at Somerville who was shot down on the street there Saturday morning, died in a local hospital Saturday night, shortly after 10 o'clock.

White was brought to Temple on a special train, rushed to a hospital by ambulance where surgeons sought by blood transfusion and a subsequent operation to save his life. However his wounds from pistol shots were too serious and he lived only a few hours.

He was shot twice through the right shoulder, the bullets ranging downward and backward and twice through the neck, one bullet ranging downward and back of the vertebrae and the other ranging upward to the mouth and lower jaw. One bullet passed through the left shoulder and into the left forearm. The most serious wound was in the left chest below the left nipple.

The body will be shipped to Somerville for burial.

Mr. White has been a peace officer there for a long period of years.

W. A. Houston, another officer at Somerville who is held in connection with the shooting, is well-known in Temple, and over this division of the Santa Fe. The trouble is said to have griwn out of old difficulties that have arisen between the two men since the 1924 election when they were both in the race for constable.

A military funeral was being planed here today for Garret A. White, constable, who died in Temple Saturday from pistol wounds received on a street here 2 hours earlier.

Twe rangers have been sent here, and W. Sledge Houston, a former peace officer of the county who surrendered after the shooting is in jail in Belton.

White was captain of the local national guard company and was the ranking captain of his regiment.

The killing is believed to have grown out of political differences of long standing. Houston had been a peace officer in this county for 24 years. He was defeated for office in the 1924 elections. For months there was considerable tenseness in the town but residents generally believed the old animosities had passed and the shooting came as a distinct shock. In a statement to officers before he died, White said he was on his way to work Saturday morning when he approached Houston and another man as they were standing on the sidewalk. White said the other man turned his back on him as he approached and that as he drew opposite the two, Houston began shooting.

White said he grappled with Houston, after he had been shot and tried to force him to stop shooting but was shot four times more. Men from the store rushed out and also grappled with Houston, and in the struggle both White and Houston fell to the ground, officials were told.

Talking to the People

That is exactly what you do when you put your message in the Cameron Herald—Largest Newspaper in Milam County.

On a recent test more than 5,000 people were brought to Cameron for an entertainment when The Herald was the only newspaper in which advertising or news mention appeared.

It is no longer practical to conduct a profitable business and meet competition unless a liberal use is made of newspaper advertising.

Circular advertising does not measure up to the standard of the newspaper column. That is why advertising in increasing volume is being placed with the country press throughout the nation. These messages go to the folks who live in the rural districts who do not read the dailies.

For 25c per colmn inch of advertising space you can talk to TEN THOUSAND people each week through the columns of The Herald. This family of readers is a rich field to be exploited by the merchant who wants to expand his business and increase its volume and profits.

D. D. Page, confederate soldier, 81 years of age, was awarded the first prize in the old fiddler's contest here on Friday night. The prize was a $20 gold piece and was presented by J. L. Clinton, cashier of the Texas State Bank and Trust Company. Tom Choat of Buckholts won second prize, a $10 gold piece and T. N. Mabry of Walker's Creek was awarded third prize a $5 gold piece.

The contest was held in the auditorium of the Yoe High School and more than five hundred people were turned away. The contest was followed by an old fashioned square dance on the public square which attracted several thousand people.

The contest, the first of its kind held here was sponsored by the American Legion. The ex-service men will hold another contest in the near future and will arrange to broadcast the program by radio.

Ten old time fiddlers took part and others not entering the contest appeared on the stage and helped to entertain the crowd.

A statement issued by the organizachants who furnished the incentives cit yofficials, the newspapers, the mertion's representative says: "To the for the children's efforts as well as to Miss Glen Stafford capable leadership full credit should be given; neither must the public's generosity in patronizing the youthful workers be omitted. From early in the morning until late in the afternoon each of the girls played the merry game of "competition" for the prizes and movie tickets and at the close of the contest it was found that Mary Newton was entitled to the first prize, having collected $12.00. Diversify!

To continue to increase your acreage of cotton will lead to a tremendous over supply and rock bottom prices.

To make money, cut down on cotton and raise hogs. There is now a scarcity of hogs and high prices prevail.

Our own state of Texas alone can handle more than 10,000,000 hogs a year at a profit to our farmers. Texas now spends $30,000,000 a year for imported pork products that ought to be produced at home.

So raise hogs!

Figures for Five Years First Baptist Church

Year Pastor—	Additions B.	L.	Members	Money Local	Money Denom.	Total	Indebtedness
1918 Blaylock	12	30	550	$ 3,681.75	$1,632.20	$ 5,313.95	Not listed
1922 White	29	25	653	6,116.00	3,180.00	9,296.75	$3,000.00
1923 White	30	40	507	6,298.00	1,865.00	8,163.00	$4,500.00
1924 Hutcherson	35	62	567	10,478.25	5,309.42	15,787.67	None
1925 Hutcherson	94	65	597	8,926.13	5,840.00	14,766.46	$ 500.00

The above figures are taken from the Minutes of the Milam County Association. The first year here given dates back to the time when the County was included in the Little River Association. The records between 1918 and 1922 are not available. It would have been interesting to give the record for each year but I have not been able to find the minutes for the intervening years.

It will be interesting to note the fact that last year we fell below the previous year by only about $1000. Taking in consideration the fact that we past through the most severe drouth and the most complete crop failure in the memory of this generation, a failure in one-fifteenth of the amount of money raised is a very little falling off. You will observe that there is an indebtedness now against the Church for about $500.00 that is the balance against the Sunday School Annex which was erected and furnished last year at a cost of a little more than $3,000.00. This bank note is covered with personal pledges.

These figures show that for the years 1918, 1922 and 1923 the Church had 166 additions while the years 1924 and 1925 she had 256 additions. And in the three years mentioned above she contributed for all purposes $22,773.70 while the other two years she contributed $30,554.13, an average for the first three years of $7,500 per year and for the last two years $15,250 per year. In addition she averaged 55 per year for the first three years, while the last two she averaged 128 per year.

WHO ARE DEACONS?

By this question we do not mean what are the names of those men who are serving on the Board of Deacons, but who are Deacons from the scriptural description and the common acceptance of the term. In other words what are the qualifications of a Deacon? The Scriptures give these qualifications very definitely:

1. He must be of good report.
2. He must be spiritually minded.
3. He must not be greedy of filthy lucre.

The Scripture speaks very explicitly on the qualification of these men who are to stand next too the God called men who are to be God's spokesmen on earth. "Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of HONEST report, FULL of the HOLY GHOST and wisdom whom we may appoint over this business." Acts 6:3. These are the first words recorded in God's Book about Deacons. Then again Paul speaks very positive about the deacons when he writes to Timothy: "Likewise must the deacons be grave, not doubletongued, not given to much wine, not greedy of filthy lucre; holding the mystery of the faith in a pure conscience. And let them also first be proved; then let them use the office of a deacon BEING FOUND BLAMELESS. Even so must their wives be grave, not slanderers, sober, faithful in all things. Let the deacons be the husbands of one wife, RULING THEIR CHILDREN AND THEIR OWN HOUSES WELL. For they that have used the office of deacon well purchase to themselves a good degree, and great boldness in the faith which is in Christ Jesus." 1 Tim. 3:8-13.

Thus we have set out from the scriptures this high standard of deaconship. Many things could be said on these passages of Scriptures for instance "not greedy of filthy lucre" meaning to teach that the deacon is not to be anxious for money that he will neglect his Church to get more money. Then the other word "filled with the Holy Ghost" meaning that he must be willing for the Holy Spirit to lead him and have direction of his life.

But what is the common accepted place of deacons in our thoughts? They are the pastor's council, they are his right hand men, men whose minds have been "transformed by the renewing of the Spirit,"; they are men who are interested in the advancement of the Lord's work at home and abroad; they are men who attend the four regular services of the Church each week; they are men who with their regular attendance and prayerful observation see the things that are lacking in their Church services and go to the pastor, call his attention to it and suggest some means of helping in that particular place. They observe such things as the music in the Church, the service rendered to the young people, the efficiency of the Sunday School, the enlistment of the Church membership in church attendance and Sunday School attendance, they study closely the general impression their Church is making on the public and talk and pray with each other and the pastor about all of these problems.

In some cases churches have elected men and ordained them as Deacons but they have never qualified.
